AN APPRECIATION

A man's ideals and his attainment of those ideals represent a measurement, indeed the only true measuring stick of his character and of successes in any field of life's endeavours. The Rockyford herd of Scotch Shorthorns, as founded and subsequently developed under high standards of breed excellence and owner integrity, reflect the high ambitions, the courage and the great enterprise of a father-son combination, Emile J. Cammaert and his son, John, of Rockyford, Alberta.

When the Rockyford herd was established some twenty years ago, there were some few within the Canadian Shorthorn industry, who did then envisage the possibility of the creation of one of the continent's good herds of Shorthorns. However, after a relatively short period of time, more and more of those who were close to the pulse of the industry, soon recognized that here was a herd which was not destined to travel the medial, but, on the contrary, one that was aspiring to take a place on the highest plateau of the industry.

The senior member of the firm, Emile Cammaert, has been one who has always done his own thinking and has put his own programme to work under his own guidance; he has thus been both architect and builder. Emile founded his herd on purchases from Scotland, which were personally selected by himself, and not left to the choice of a plenipotentiary.

As the years have gone by, the Rockyford productions gradually made their appearances at the nation's leading shows and they commenced garnering top awards at the hands of judges of national and international eminence. With the winning of prizes came the ultimate recognition in the sale ring, and the dissemination of the herd productions into wide areas of Canada and the United States. Thus, a pattern of high achievement was unfolding, as was forecast by seasoned breed observers at the time of the herd's foundation.

At the time of writing, I am not aware of the reason for this sweeping reduction, in fact—a near dispersal of this great herd of cattle. Whatever the reason, there is always a twinge of sadness and regret at the near closing of such a door. Nonetheless, few doors close without others opening, and in this case, doors of opportunity will open to breed supporters, in that they can secure animals of superb bloodlines that have been carefully bred for high performance achievements.

Again, there is another kind of door beyond the door of opportunity; there are the doors of hospitality, friendship and good will. Assuredly the countless visitors to Rockyford Stock Farms will continue to cherish in their memories the pleasant times surrounding a visit to Rockyford. Mrs. Cammaert has been a great partner, and has played in the home a magnificent role in carrying forward her responsibilities in the furtherance of the development of this enterprise. Good cattle and genuine sincere hospitality were the ingredients which made a visit to the Cammaerts an event to be cherished among one's memorabilia.

Emile Cammaert has earned the highly regarded award of Master Farmer, an annual recognition made by the Province of Alberta to a distinguished member of the agricultural fraternity. The award is not perfunctorily attained, the winner of such is truly a distinguished agriculturist. Such an attainment in agriculture is just an additional attestation of this man's great ideal to do things right, and achieve something as close to perfection as is possible in this world.

No breed, no community, no nation can have too many Cammaerts—there never have been enough to go around.
